Construction Notice

Update: Civil Electrical Work on Queens Quay East at Merchants' Wharf Extended to the end of February.

In coordination with Toronto Hydro, Eastern Construction is carrying out civil electrical work along the public right-of-way near 225 Queens Quay East (Scotiabank location) as part of the Quayside project. This involves installing underground duct banks beneath the sidewalk to support future electrical servicing in the area.

During this work, the work zone will occupy a portion of the Martin Goodman Trail and sidewalk (between the western entrance of Merchants' Wharf and Dockside Drive), resulting in a narrowed pathway. Signage and fencing have been installed to safely guide users around the work zone, including signage requesting that cyclists dismount when passing through this section for everyone's safety.

Due to unexpected delays, completion is now anticipated by the end of February. Please be assured that all parties are working to complete this work as efficiently possible.

All activity on site will take place during daytime hours only. The duration of this work depends on technical approvals and site conditions and, as a result, the schedule may vary. Noise and disruption are expected to be minimal. If there are any changes to the timing of this work, an updated notice will be distributed.

Thank you for your patience as we complete this necessary work to support the future Quayside community.
